

"I'M THE RED DOLLAR SIGN GIRL!"
Find me at Revere Beach to-morrow and I'll give you $50 in gold."

BOSTON AMERICAN NIGHT EDITION

WEATHER FORECAST. THE TWENTY-THIRD NEWSPAPER Fair To-day; Showers to-morrow

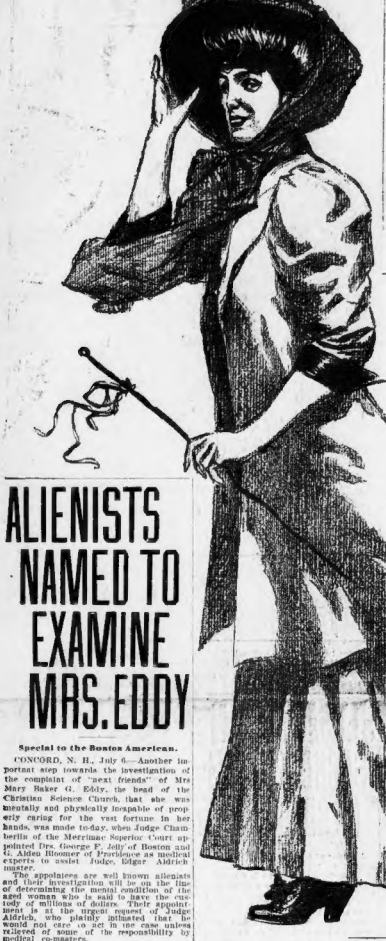

VOL. 4—No. 107.

Copyright 1907, by the N. England Newspaper & Printing Co., Inc.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, JULY 6, 1907.

Published by the N. England Newspaper & Printing Co., Inc.

ONE CENT.

ALLEGES WAS EXAMINED WIS. EDDY

Special to the Boston American.

CONCORD, N. H., July 6.—Another important step towards the investigation of the complaint of "next friends" of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, the head of the Christian Science Church, that she was mentally and physically incapable of properly caring for the vast fortune in her hands, was made today when Judge Chamberlain of the Merrimack Superior Court appointed Dr. George F. Joly of Boston and Dr. Adria Blomster of Providence as medical experts to assist Judge Edgar Aldrich in his investigation.

Asked for Co-Master.

The following correspondence between Judge Aldrich and Judge Chamberlain, resulting in the former appointing the appointment, as master was given out today.

THE HON. JUDGE EDGAR ALDRICH, Judge of the Merrimack Superior Court, Concord, N. H.

Dear Judge Aldrich:—I am in receipt of your communication of July fourth in relation to the appointment of a co-master in the case of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy. I have been thinking of this matter for some time, and I have been very much interested in the case. I have been thinking of this matter for some time, and I have been very much interested in the case. I have been thinking of this matter for some time, and I have been very much interested in the case.

Alleged Chosen.

BERLIN, N. H., July 5.

"Hon. Edgar Aldrich, Judge of the Merrimack Superior Court, Concord, N. H.

Dear Judge Aldrich:—I am in receipt of your communication of July fourth in relation to the appointment of a co-master in the case of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy. I have been thinking of this matter for some time, and I have been very much interested in the case. I have been thinking of this matter for some time, and I have been very much interested in the case.

Farlow Unchanged.

After Farlow, presently agent for Mrs. Eddy, said today that he had not yet heard of the appointment of the attorneys to Judge Chamberlain's case. He has been generally nothing about the progress of the case, but he said that he has been very much interested in the case. He has been thinking of this matter for some time, and I have been very much interested in the case.

I am the Girl with the Red Dollar Sign.

I shall be in Revere Beach to-morrow and I shall have $50 in gold to give to somebody. It is important to me who gets the gold pieces.

They are furnished by the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN. My instructions are very simple and I shall obey them to the letter.

All a person has to do is to walk up to me and say plainly:

"Are you the Girl with the Red Dollar Sign?"

When you do that I shall reply: "I am." Then I shall hand you the $50 in gold.

As I said, I do not care in the least who gets this money. The lucky person may be a man, or a woman, or a child. All you have to do is ask me the question. The person who does it first gets the prize.

I can tell you just where I will be, at my particular time. I propose to stroll about the popular beach and enjoy myself. I may take a swim, sunbathe along the Boulevard or wander into Wonderland and other Revere attractions.

They get discouraged if you do not find me at once and if you happen to make a few mistakes in the city. Keep at it. To paraphrase a popular song:

Somebody's got to find me.

And it might as well be you.

I suggest that you read to-morrow's Sunday AMERICAN as I have been told that there will be something there that may aid you in your search for me.

"THE GIRL WITH THE RED DOLLAR SIGN."

The story written by "The Girl with the Red Dollar Sign" is very interesting, but she has only told you a small part of the opportunity that awaits you at Revere Beach to-morrow.

THE BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN not only gives you a chance for the $50 in gold that the girl will hand over, but it also gives you a chance for the $50 in gold that the girl will hand over.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

How is that? The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it. The girl will hand over the $50 in gold to the first person who asks her for it.

Oil King Crushed and Breathless as Police

Clubbed Frantic Mob That Assailed Court House—Women Faint in Throng

CHICAGO, July 6.—John D. Rockefeller, the only billionaire in the United States and probably in the world, was made the central figure in a desperate riot in the Federal building to-day, in which the police clubbed a crowd of people fighting to see him. The trust magnate was half stifled in the terrific struggle.

The Standard Oil chief, who maintained apparent calm, was hustled through a crush in which the cries of the police, deputy marshals and Secret Service men were mingled with the protests of injured men. Women fainted in the heat of the strife.

The Oil King was crowded through the dense mass of curious into the courtroom of Judge Landis without injury. He was ushered to a seat for witnesses and later called to the stand for the first time in his life in a court of record.

The magnate had previously held a conference with his attorneys in the Commercial National Bank building. Crowds blocked his way into the structure, and guards were necessary to drive back the curious.

JOHN D. GRACIOUS AND SMILING.

Rockefeller smilingly stopped long enough in this crowd to pose for photographs. "I am only sorry that I have not time to talk freely," declared Mr. Rockefeller while his pictures were being taken. Mr. Rockefeller made his first appearance on the side porch of the Harold F. McCormick home, No. 38 Bellevue place, shortly before 9 o'clock. He was dressed in a black suit and carried a straw hat in his hand.

William Rockefeller and Mr. and Mrs. McCormick were beside the trust prince.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Oil King Crushed and Breathless as Police

Clubbed Frantic Mob That Assailed Court House—Women Faint in Throng

CHICAGO, July 6.—John D. Rockefeller, the only billionaire in the United States and probably in the world, was made the central figure in a desperate riot in the Federal building to-day, in which the police clubbed a crowd of people fighting to see him. The trust magnate was half stifled in the terrific struggle.

The Standard Oil chief, who maintained apparent calm, was hustled through a crush in which the cries of the police, deputy marshals and Secret Service men were mingled with the protests of injured men. Women fainted in the heat of the strife.

The Oil King was crowded through the dense mass of curious into the courtroom of Judge Landis without injury. He was ushered to a seat for witnesses and later called to the stand for the first time in his life in a court of record.

The magnate had previously held a conference with his attorneys in the Commercial National Bank building. Crowds blocked his way into the structure, and guards were necessary to drive back the curious.

JOHN D. GRACIOUS AND SMILING.

Rockefeller smilingly stopped long enough in this crowd to pose for photographs. "I am only sorry that I have not time to talk freely," declared Mr. Rockefeller while his pictures were being taken. Mr. Rockefeller made his first appearance on the side porch of the Harold F. McCormick home, No. 38 Bellevue place, shortly before 9 o'clock. He was dressed in a black suit and carried a straw hat in his hand.

William Rockefeller and Mr. and Mrs. McCormick were beside the trust prince.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Oil King Crushed and Breathless as Police

Clubbed Frantic Mob That Assailed Court House—Women Faint in Throng

CHICAGO, July 6.—John D. Rockefeller, the only billionaire in the United States and probably in the world, was made the central figure in a desperate riot in the Federal building to-day, in which the police clubbed a crowd of people fighting to see him. The trust magnate was half stifled in the terrific struggle.

The Standard Oil chief, who maintained apparent calm, was hustled through a crush in which the cries of the police, deputy marshals and Secret Service men were mingled with the protests of injured men. Women fainted in the heat of the strife.

The Oil King was crowded through the dense mass of curious into the courtroom of Judge Landis without injury. He was ushered to a seat for witnesses and later called to the stand for the first time in his life in a court of record.

The magnate had previously held a conference with his attorneys in the Commercial National Bank building. Crowds blocked his way into the structure, and guards were necessary to drive back the curious.

JOHN D. GRACIOUS AND SMILING.

Rockefeller smilingly stopped long enough in this crowd to pose for photographs. "I am only sorry that I have not time to talk freely," declared Mr. Rockefeller while his pictures were being taken. Mr. Rockefeller made his first appearance on the side porch of the Harold F. McCormick home, No. 38 Bellevue place, shortly before 9 o'clock. He was dressed in a black suit and carried a straw hat in his hand.

William Rockefeller and Mr. and Mrs. McCormick were beside the trust prince.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Oil King Crushed and Breathless as Police

Clubbed Frantic Mob That Assailed Court House—Women Faint in Throng

CHICAGO, July 6.—John D. Rockefeller, the only billionaire in the United States and probably in the world, was made the central figure in a desperate riot in the Federal building to-day, in which the police clubbed a crowd of people fighting to see him. The trust magnate was half stifled in the terrific struggle.

The Standard Oil chief, who maintained apparent calm, was hustled through a crush in which the cries of the police, deputy marshals and Secret Service men were mingled with the protests of injured men. Women fainted in the heat of the strife.

The Oil King was crowded through the dense mass of curious into the courtroom of Judge Landis without injury. He was ushered to a seat for witnesses and later called to the stand for the first time in his life in a court of record.

The magnate had previously held a conference with his attorneys in the Commercial National Bank building. Crowds blocked his way into the structure, and guards were necessary to drive back the curious.

JOHN D. GRACIOUS AND SMILING.

Rockefeller smilingly stopped long enough in this crowd to pose for photographs. "I am only sorry that I have not time to talk freely," declared Mr. Rockefeller while his pictures were being taken. Mr. Rockefeller made his first appearance on the side porch of the Harold F. McCormick home, No. 38 Bellevue place, shortly before 9 o'clock. He was dressed in a black suit and carried a straw hat in his hand.

William Rockefeller and Mr. and Mrs. McCormick were beside the trust prince.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Oil King Crushed and Breathless as Police

Clubbed Frantic Mob That Assailed Court House—Women Faint in Throng

CHICAGO, July 6.—John D. Rockefeller, the only billionaire in the United States and probably in the world, was made the central figure in a desperate riot in the Federal building to-day, in which the police clubbed a crowd of people fighting to see him. The trust magnate was half stifled in the terrific struggle.

The Standard Oil chief, who maintained apparent calm, was hustled through a crush in which the cries of the police, deputy marshals and Secret Service men were mingled with the protests of injured men. Women fainted in the heat of the strife.

The Oil King was crowded through the dense mass of curious into the courtroom of Judge Landis without injury. He was ushered to a seat for witnesses and later called to the stand for the first time in his life in a court of record.

The magnate had previously held a conference with his attorneys in the Commercial National Bank building. Crowds blocked his way into the structure, and guards were necessary to drive back the curious.

JOHN D. GRACIOUS AND SMILING.

Rockefeller smilingly stopped long enough in this crowd to pose for photographs. "I am only sorry that I have not time to talk freely," declared Mr. Rockefeller while his pictures were being taken. Mr. Rockefeller made his first appearance on the side porch of the Harold F. McCormick home, No. 38 Bellevue place, shortly before 9 o'clock. He was dressed in a black suit and carried a straw hat in his hand.

William Rockefeller and Mr. and Mrs. McCormick were beside the trust prince.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Oil King Crushed and Breathless as Police

Clubbed Frantic Mob That Assailed Court House—Women Faint in Throng

CHICAGO, July 6.—John D. Rockefeller, the only billionaire in the United States and probably in the world, was made the central figure in a desperate riot in the Federal building to-day, in which the police clubbed a crowd of people fighting to see him. The trust magnate was half stifled in the terrific struggle.

The Standard Oil chief, who maintained apparent calm, was hustled through a crush in which the cries of the police, deputy marshals and Secret Service men were mingled with the protests of injured men. Women fainted in the heat of the strife.

The Oil King was crowded through the dense mass of curious into the courtroom of Judge Landis without injury. He was ushered to a seat for witnesses and later called to the stand for the first time in his life in a court of record.

The magnate had previously held a conference with his attorneys in the Commercial National Bank building. Crowds blocked his way into the structure, and guards were necessary to drive back the curious.

JOHN D. GRACIOUS AND SMILING.

Rockefeller smilingly stopped long enough in this crowd to pose for photographs. "I am only sorry that I have not time to talk freely," declared Mr. Rockefeller while his pictures were being taken. Mr. Rockefeller made his first appearance on the side porch of the Harold F. McCormick home, No. 38 Bellevue place, shortly before 9 o'clock. He was dressed in a black suit and carried a straw hat in his hand.

William Rockefeller and Mr. and Mrs. McCormick were beside the trust prince.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Oil King Crushed and Breathless as Police

Clubbed Frantic Mob That Assailed Court House—Women Faint in Throng

CHICAGO, July 6.—John D. Rockefeller, the only billionaire in the United States and probably in the world, was made the central figure in a desperate riot in the Federal building to-day, in which the police clubbed a crowd of people fighting to see him. The trust magnate was half stifled in the terrific struggle.

The Standard Oil chief, who maintained apparent calm, was hustled through a crush in which the cries of the police, deputy marshals and Secret Service men were mingled with the protests of injured men. Women fainted in the heat of the strife.

The Oil King was crowded through the dense mass of curious into the courtroom of Judge Landis without injury. He was ushered to a seat for witnesses and later called to the stand for the first time in his life in a court of record.

The magnate had previously held a conference with his attorneys in the Commercial National Bank building. Crowds blocked his way into the structure, and guards were necessary to drive back the curious.

JOHN D. GRACIOUS AND SMILING.

Rockefeller smilingly stopped long enough in this crowd to pose for photographs. "I am only sorry that I have not time to talk freely," declared Mr. Rockefeller while his pictures were being taken. Mr. Rockefeller made his first appearance on the side porch of the Harold F. McCormick home, No. 38 Bellevue place, shortly before 9 o'clock. He was dressed in a black suit and carried a straw hat in his hand.

William Rockefeller and Mr. and Mrs. McCormick were beside the trust prince.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

ENTERING COURT, CAUGHT

TAILOR QUESTIONED

IN STODLEY MYSTERY

NEGRO WHO TOLD OF FLEEING MANIAC QUESTIONED BY POLICE

Special to the Boston American.

SALEM, N. H., July 6.—Convicted that George W. Taylor, the negro, who says he saw a kidnapped man running away from the Old Lady, Monday evening, before the Old Lady of Mrs. Annie H. Stodley was discovered, does not tell the authorities all he knows in connection with the case, the many authorities are today joining the Old Lady of Mrs. Stodley in the belief that the negro is "holding back" the truth. The authorities are today joining the Old Lady of Mrs. Stodley in the belief that the negro is "holding back" the truth. The authorities are today joining the Old Lady of Mrs. Stodley in the belief that the negro is "holding back" the truth.

Heard Woman Scream.

Major Herbert Newell, County Solicitor of Essex County, and then State of Essex County, who was the first to hear the scream of the Old Lady of Mrs. Stodley, is today questioning the negro. The authorities are today joining the Old Lady of Mrs. Stodley in the belief that the negro is "holding back" the truth. The authorities are today joining the Old Lady of Mrs. Stodley in the belief that the negro is "holding back" the truth.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

21 ARE KILLED BY TORNADO IN WISCONSIN

ST. PAUL, July 6.—Twenty-one persons are known to have been killed in the tornado which swept a path 100 miles long and from a mile to a few rods in width through the counties of Central Wisconsin Wednesday night.

Details of the damage are still coming in slowly and it is believed that the death

CHILD DIES OF BURNS.
HOULTON, Me., July 8.—Burns, caused by a slow match which set fire to her dress, resulted in the death of Florence K. Welch, aged nine, yesterday.

Free  American

now offers its readers Free Tickets to Wonderland and to one Ten-Cent Show inside the Wor-

now offers its readers Free Tickets to Wonderland and to one Ten-Cent Show inside the Wor-

These tickets will be given away with every

Sunday American
beginning to-morrow. This is in addition to all other Free Amusement Tickets that the AMERICAN is giving away every Sunday.

to the Great Amuse-

... Beach will be:
... 10c
Pony, Dog and
... 10c

ud"

American Wonderland coupons
are FREE

Absolutely Free. All

to buy a copy of the American
out the coupons,
the grounds

ST. PAUL, July 6.—Twenty-one persons are known to have been killed in the tornado which swept a path 109 miles long from near St. Paul to a few rods in width northward to the town of Central, Wisconsin Wednesday night.

Details of the damage are still coming in slowly and it is believed that the death toll will reach at least 30 before all reports are heard from. In addition to those killed, a score or more people were injured, some of them so seriously that their recovery is doubtful. The property damage will be more than $100,000.

CHILD DIES OF BURNS.

HOOULTON, Me., July 6.—Burns, caused by a slow match which set fire to her dress, died last night at Florence hospital.

Released nine yesterday.

erland
ree==

American
now offers its readers Free Tickets to
W. J. ...

Wonderland and to one Ten-Cent Show
inside the Wonderland grounds.
These tickets will be given away with

every
Sunday
American

beginning to-morrow. This is in addition to all other
Free Amusement
Tickets that the AMERICAN is giving away every Sunday.

to the Great Amuse-

ere Beach will be:
 10c Pony, Dog and rome 10c

ud”

American Wonderland coupons
are FREE

cut out the coupons,
the grounds

THE JOURNAL OF THE

